The Big Countdown Begins

Research clearly shows that men on the island of Ireland experience a disproportionate burden of ill-health and die too young. They: die younger than women; have higher death rates for almost all of the leading causes of death and at all ages; have poorer lifestyles which are responsible for a high proportion of chronic diseases; present later to health services which can lead to a large number of problems becoming untreatable ... However, this is not a lost cause. Much can be / is being done to improve this situation.

We're now only a few months away from International Men's Health Week (MHW), which begins on the Monday before Father's Day and end on Father's Day itself. This year, it will take place from Monday 10th - Sunday 16th June. This week is celebrated in many European countries, as well as in the USA, Australia, New Zealand, Canada (and a number of other places worldwide), and offers a unique and ideal opportunity for everyone to do their bit to improve the health of men and boys by: heightening awareness of preventable health problems; supporting men and boys to engage in healthier lifestyle choices / activities; and encouraging the early detection / treatment of health problems.

Each year, there is also a specific theme. During 2024, the theme for Ireland will be 'Know Your Numbers' and the key message to everyone is 'men's health counts'.

This is a population-wide attempt to increase awareness of the key numbers that policy makers / service providers / men / important people in men's lives need to know. Sometimes, these will relate to individual medical issues (e.g. blood pressure, heart rate, cholesterol level), but they also include key statistics on the state of men's health in Ireland, as well as the contact numbers for helpline and support services which are available.

Now's the time to start planning what you might do to mark this important occasion. A range of free resources will soon be made available. These include posters, postcards, social media content, graphics, an updated 'Action Man' manual, signposting tools etc. Keep up-to-date with developments at: <https://mhfi.org/mhw/about-mhw.html> and kick-off your MHW activity by sharing the countdown video clip at: <https://youtu.be/tySffvmZZ4>

Implications of Increased Alcohol Availability

On Thursday 8th February 2024, more than 65 health, social and community organisations, academics and advocates came together to voice opposition to proposed measures in the Sale of Alcohol Bill that will dramatically increase the number of venues serving alcohol, as well as significantly extending the opening hours of pubs, bars and nightclubs in the Republic of Ireland. These bodies called on the Irish Government's Party Leaders for a health impact assessment on the Sale of Alcohol Bill. Find out more at:

Training

Let's Talk About Suicide

'Let's Talk About Suicide' is a new free online suicide prevention training programme that helps people to develop their skills to keep others safe. It assists participants to: identify people who are at risk; confidently ask about the topic of suicide; and connect them with resources that can help them to stay safe. The programme was developed by the HSE's National Office for Suicide Prevention (NOSP), and is available to anyone over 18 years of age. It uses a mix of guided online content, video and interactive questions. Participants can pause and recommence the programme at their own convenience. On average, the programme takes 60 minutes to complete, but participants can work at their own pace. Find out how to access it at: <https://traininghub.nosp.ie>

Young Men's Rites of Passage

Young Men's Rites of Passage (YMROP) is an international event that has seen the participation of thousands of young men. This year, Males Ireland is hosting the event for the first time in Ireland. YMROP is a transformative experience that will resonate deeply with young men (aged 18-28 years) seeking to grow into the most authentic versions of themselves. The event is non-profit and is organised by a dedicated team of male volunteers. It will take place from Wednesday 24th - Sunday 28th July 2024 in Kiltegan, Co. Wicklow. For more information about this retreat, visit: <https://youngmensritesireland.ie>

Research

How're You Doing Man?

Congratulations to everyone in Insight Inishowen on the official launch of 'How're You Doing Man?' in January 2024. This report, by Ruth Garvey-Williams and Margaret McLafferty, highlights the findings from research conducted into men's mental health in Donegal. The aim of this research was to listen to local men to find out their views, experiences and opinions about mental health, and the services and supports that are available to them. By conducting both quantitative and qualitative research, the team were able to build up a picture of some of the key issues that are emerging across the county. They also listened to women's concerns about their male loved ones. See a copy of the report at:

Older Men and Loneliness

Research into men and masculinities suggests that men may be more reluctant than women to state they are lonely, more reliant on partners and/or alcohol to tackle it, and that this may be a result of poorer social relationships. This study tests hypotheses on sex differences in loneliness among older England-based men and women. Find out more at:

State of Caring Survey

Every two years, Family Carers Ireland conducts the 'State of Caring' survey - a comprehensive study to better understand the lives and experiences of family members who are currently providing care. Previous reports have highlighted the impact of being a carer, and provided evidence for submissions to decision makers and policy makers. The 2024 survey has now been launched, and they are eager to have input from a broad range of carers - especially men. The survey takes approximately 20 minutes to complete, and can be found at: <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/StateOfCaring2024> If you know of any carers who would prefer a paper copy of the survey, or who would like some support with completing it, please direct them to Joanne Murphy at Tel: 086 0326187 or Email: jmurphy@familycarers.ie

Masculine Ideals and Health in Older Men

Masculine identity upholds beliefs about masculine enactment. These beliefs can be detrimental to men, and can lead to behaviours that put undue stress on them. This study examines how masculine ideals are associated with health and depressive symptomatology in older men. Read more at: <https://journals.sagepub.com/doi/10.1177/15579883231220714>

Next Edition

Do you know of anything (research, events, resources, training, news etc.) affecting men and boys which should be included in the next edition of 'E-Male Matters'? ...

Anyone can propose an article for inclusion in this newsletter - so long as it is of relevance to males, does not promote a commercial enterprise / product, and does not insult anyone.

There's a simple format for all articles. Let us know (within one paragraph and no more than 150 words) all the crucial details e.g. title, date, time, venue, short description, contact details for further information (name, telephone and/or email address), and web link (if available) for a fuller explanation. To keep the file size of this newsletter small, we cannot, unfortunately, accept photographs or images.

Please email your information to: emalematters@mhfi.org
