

Training and resources with Ed Sipler in the South Eastern Trust – Autumn 2026

The theme for this year's mental health campaign is anxiety

What can contribute to helping people with worry and anxiety?

The tools and resources on our Thriving Mind platform holds short clips for relaxed breathing, an introduction to mindfulness, calming skills, the revised Dealing with Worry Booklet, and four online interventions including Self-compassion and Bend Don't Break and more.

Thriving Mind is available at

It is strongly recommended that practitioners if they want to use the resources in practice, complete the on-line work for themselves to become familiar with the content. This is a suggestion, not a requirement. An evaluation link on the appropriate platform to will help gauge impact.

By attending any training, you are agreeing to provide a short evaluation after the training to give feedback of the impact of this training.

Training sessions include:

- Building emotional regulation in children with parents using Building our Children's Developing Brain – 22nd of September
- Making use of the Thriving Mind resources 23rd of September 2026
- Using low intensity CBT based tools to build resilience (revised Bend Don't Break) – 17th of November 2026
- Making Our Nervous System Work For Us- Using the Polyvagal Theory to Improve Well-Being – 19th of November 2026
- Using Self-compassion to improve well – 24th of November 2026
- Building emotional regulation in children with parents using Building our Children's Developing Brain – 2nd of December

Building emotional regulation in children through working with parents. This one-half day workshop will equip workers to use Building our Children's Developing Brain adapted from The Whole-Brain Child by Dan Siegel & Tina Bryson with practical parenting strategies to help the different parts of our children's brains work together. It is important to stress this is not infant mental health work, but the stage beyond this. The main booklet used can be seen on the Trust's website at

The material can be used by those trained in 1-1 work or with groups of parents.

Date 22nd of September 10:AM to 1:00 PM on Zoom

Exploring the contents of Thriving Mind – resources for well being Thriving Mind is the ASCERT, Health Improvement in the Western Trust, and Health Development in the South Eastern Trust, supported by the Public Health Agency working together to bring tools and resources to improve well-being.

The Thriving Mind Home Page is a page Tiger platform bringing a range of self-care and well-being resources to one place to increase accessibility.

Some of the tools are written resources. Some are visual media clips. Some are on-line interventions that are free to use at the user's pace. They were all developed with strong service user involvement.

What will get from attending this workshop is a good insight into and experience what resources brings to you, your team or family with a focus on the revised worry booklet.

Date and Time: 23rd of September 2026 -10 AM to 12:00 PM on Zoon

Using guided self-help to build resilience – Bend Don't Break

Good thinking skills, support and self-care are central to supporting well-being and resilience.

Low intensity work means the member of staff has the skills to coach people through the use of CBT-based self-help material. The training will build the confidence and skills of participants to use a low intensity resource, Bend Don't Break with their clients or for themselves which has been revised with a 2023 version.

Date: 17th of November 2026 10:AM to 1:00 PM on Zoom

Making Our Nervous System Work For Us- Using the Polyvagal Theory to Improve Well-Being. In this workshop, participants will increase learning about our nervous system, the role of the Vagus nerve, and the Polyvagal Theory. With an on-line version of the workbook, it will enable using this material with exercises to help to improve self-regulation. This work is psycho-education to present information and introduce self-help that is up to the participants how they make use of it.

Date: - 19th of November 2026 10:AM to 1:00 PM on Zoom

Self-Compassion – Why the way we talk to ourselves matters

People in Northern Ireland tend to be their own worst critics. We tend to see our weaknesses, not our strengths and can be really hard on ourselves. There is good evidence that when someone practices self-compassion, it improves not only their physical health and well-being, it also helps them achieve goals and make changes in their lives that are important to them.

How to “teach” self-compassion? The first step is to begin to practice it in our own lives and model it in our interactions with family and service users.

What you will get from attending the workshop: An introduction to self-compassion, what it is and the evidence behind it, how to make the most of it, experience some of the exercises, and explore a way forward to integrate self-compassion in your work.

If you are thriving, what are you doing to maintain your wellbeing? What if you are surviving or struggling? How do you focus on your well-being? These may help: Online work you can do at your own pace. Copy and paste the link.

Do you tend to overthink things and see the bad before the good?

Does your nervous system work against you rather than for you?

Do you over criticize yourself with mistakes and put yourself down?

As a parent, do meltdowns from your children exhaust you?

ASCERT, and the South Eastern Social Care Trust have created 4 on-line self-help resources with workbooks that can be downloaded with visual clips that guides the viewer through the workbooks at their own pace. They are all free and confidential.
